SECRETARY OF STATE TO GOVERNOR

Downing Street, 7th May, 1891 Sir,-With reference to the telegraphic corspondence noted in the margin relative, to the crease of salaries in the Hongkong civil serrice. I have the honour to inform you that I received a telegram from Mr. Ryrie on the 24th ultime in the following wards:—

'Unofficial members Council dissatisfied "financial position and prospects; request "postpone increase salaries: further consi-"deration required; preparing memorial; "Governor declines forward telegram." I rather from the proceedings in the Legisla. ive Council as reported in the Mail Supplement o the Hongkong Daily Press of 25th March last, that the suggestion to reconsider the question of paying the increased salaries was made "in consequence of the enhanced military contribution still demanded by the Imperial Government." I am unable to admit that the decision as to he military contribution forms any valid ground for postponing the grant of the increased salaries, since those salaries were voted on the estimates for the current year, at the same time that the increased military contribution was voted, and the position has not since been altered. I see no reason to doubt that the Colony can well afford to meet both of these charges, Ryrie is reported (in the above mentioned newspaper) to have stated in Council that all public works had been stopped, and to have argued therefore that the Colony could not afford to pay the increased military contribition. It is possible that Mr. Ryrie may have been led to use this argument through a misconception as to the intention of my telegram of the 19th of February last, which requested you to take no steps till further orders as to extraordinary public works not already commenced. You will have since received my despatch No. 39 of 27th February. from which you will have learned that it was not my wish that such works should be indefinitely postpoued, but merely that some of them should be postponed pending the completion of such as were more urgent, since the Public Works Department could hardly undertake all of them at the same time. I did not suggest that the Colony could not

The Chairman said the Committee would feel same years ago, to enable some of the larger works to be carried out. The necessity for such a loan was admitted before either the question of increased military contribition or of increased only say that he hoped to play in future. He salaries was raised. I am always ready and willing to give the most attentive considerlony since the estimates for this year were considered by the Council, I see no reason for further postponing the scheme of increased it into operation as from 1st of January last. with the modifications sanctioned in my des-

Reviewing English weather and wheat since 1775, Nature draws the inference that rainfall-rules the harvests for more potently than mean temperature. The mean summer temperature of the years of superior crops has exceeded by only 1.8° that of the years of inferior crops. The mean rainfall for the summers of had crops has been 2.9 inches more than that of good seasons, which means that the wet summers had half as much more rain—with a consequent deficiency of the sunshine so vital to the growth and maturity of the plants—than the dry ones. The wheat yield follows the rainfall inversely, being greatest in the hot dry summers and least in the wet sunless summers.

Mr. W. C. Roberts-Austen remarks that the importance of the isomeric and allotropic states has been much neglected in the case of metals.
